Overview

Glenn is a partner in the Saskatoon office, practicing primarily in the areas of litigation and dispute resolution.

He is an experienced civil and commercial litigator. He represents a wide variety of clients with diverse issues, including contract disputes, farm land and real estate disputes, oppression and shareholder disputes, commercial landlord/tenant disputes, employer/employee-side employment disputes, and other civil matters. He has successfully resolved complex matters on behalf of large organizations, farmers, entrepreneurs and individuals.

Glenn also has years of experience helping family law clients in all aspects of their separation, including division of property, spousal support, child support and parenting. Well-versed in all major areas of family practice, Glenn has particular experience with high-net worth clients, including farmers and entrepreneurs.

He also has significant estate litigation experience, including issues regarding the validity of wills and testamentary instruments on grounds of capacity and undue influence, relief to dependants, and family law property claims regarding estates.

Glenn has successfully represented clients in every Saskatchewan court, with numerous reported decisions. He also has a favourable track-record of negotiating and drafting comprehensive settlement agreements that meet client objectives and provide certainty and finality faster than litigated outcomes.

In addition, Glenn brings a corporate/commercial law background and experience negotiating, advising and drafting a variety of purchase/sale transactions, financings, reorganizations and shareholder/partnership agreements.
