Estate Litigation

Aadon Fieger is an associate in the firm's Regina office. Aadon's practice focuses primarily on real estate, business, and wills and estates issues. Having broad experience as both a solicitor and litigator in a variety of practice areas, Aadon is well equipped in advising his clients on navigating complex and dynamic legal questions.

Overview

Aadon's estate planning practice focuses on working with clients in developing a plan that fits their personal circumstances. This includes working with your team of professional advisors to ensure your estate plan fits within the context of your broader financial, insurance, tax, and disability planning.

Aadon also works with personal representatives in administering all types of estates from simple to complex. This includes helping personal representatives navigate the legal aspects of a deceased person's estate efficiently at each stage of the administration process, from date of death to final distribution to the beneficiaries.

Unfortunately, in some cases, conflict arises in the administration of an estate. When it does, Aadon helps personal representatives and beneficiaries understand their rights and options. Aadon is capable of representing parties in working with the other estate stakeholders through these points of conflict, whether through negotiated settlement or court proceedings, and supports his clients in resolving these disputes.

Aadon also supports clients in residential and commercial real estate. Whether you are looking to buy, sell, or refinance, Aadon has experience in working with clients from the initial stages of negotiating an agreement of purchase and sale/lease through to closing of the transaction.

Aadon also carries a general business and corporate practice and has an interest in understanding his clients' particular businesses and their corresponding needs. This helps Aadon work with his clients to tailor practical solutions for problems and support their business operations in running smoothly.

Aadon also has experience advising owners of freehold mineral rights with the negotiation of both mineral and surface leases. Aadon supports personal representatives of estates with the transmission of mineral and surface interests to beneficiaries or the sale to third parties, and the leasing of mineral rights to oil and gas companies.
